

Executive MBA Council Elects New Members to its Board of Trustees

ORANGE, Calif., July 10, 2008 – Members of the Executive MBA Council elected six new representatives to its Board of Trustees in June. The following newly elected members will begin their three-year terms at the Executive MBA Council Conference, set for Oct. 26-29, 2008, in Chicago, Ill.

- Jeff Bieganek, director of admissions and recruiting, MBA Programs, Carlson School of Management, University of Minnesota
- Jordi Diaz, director of international masters and international relations, EADA Business School, Barcelona
- Bill Lindsey, associate dean and director of the Center for Executive Learning, Loyola Marymount University, Los Angeles
- Lucy Maillette, executive director of the Executive MBA and Weekend MBA Programs, Michigan State University
- Catherine Molony, senior associate director of the Wharton MBA Program for Executives, The Wharton School – University of Pennsylvania
- Guillermo Selva, associate dean of MBA and Executive MBA Programs, INCAE Business School, Costa Rica

About the Executive MBA Council

The Executive MBA Council fosters excellence and innovation worldwide in Executive MBA Programs. The council provides a place for programs to share best practices and gathers data that helps members improve their programs and reveals the importance of business degree programs for professionals. The council has more than 200 members worldwide, which offer more than 320 programs. For additional information, visit www.emba.org or contact Paula Mielke, media relations for the Executive MBA Council, 651-647-0311 or paula.mielke@embac.org.

###